As Manitoba's Minister of Agriculture and Food, it is my sincere pleasure to present the 2001 Manitoba Food Products Directory. This document has a history of helping members of Manitoba's food industry make contacts that are passports to international business success.

In these pages you will find the most complete listing of Manitoba food products, manufacturers, processors, wholesalers, brokers, marketing boards and producer associations. Discover a vast selection of high-quality processed foods and commodities, and a reputation for excellence that only Manitoba products can bring to the international marketplace.

Manitoba's central location and strong transportation links can put our products in the hands of consumers quickly and efficiently. I invite you to explore the quality and diversity of products listed in this publication and share in the pride we feel for Manitoba's agriculture and food.

MANITOBA FOOD PROCESSORS ASSOCIATION

The Manitoba Food Processors Association (MFPA) is an industry-run organization whose mission is to facilitate and promote the food processing industry in Manitoba.

The Association can assist with marketing and market development programs, including joint trade missions for import/export, joint product presentations to regional buyers, co-operative sales promotion with local retailers and incoming buyer programs.

The Association is available to act as a liaison to government agencies and departments on issues relating to regulations, labeling, trade, R & D assistance and other issues impacting the food processing industry.

The benefits of membership in the MFPA include access to initiatives, such as the following: Packaging Improvement Programs, discounts on Seminars, Provincial Retail and Food Service Programs, Retail Programs into the U.S./Foreign Markets, P.O.S. Material, Participation in Incoming Buyer Missions, Co-operative Materials Purchasing, Co-operative Distribution Systems, Networking and Partnership Opportunities, Exclusive Market Research, Priority Access to Government Programs and Research and Customized Training Programs.

The MFPA is dedicated to the interests and priorities of companies actively involved in Manitoba's food industry.

For more information, contact:

CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF FOOD SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The Canadian Institute of Food Science and Technology (CIFST) advocates and promotes the quality, safety and wholesomeness of the Canadian food supply through applied science and technology by linking food science professionals from industry, government and academia. The Institute has three objectives:

1. To provide a forum for the interchange of educational, scientific and business ideas and information;
2. To promote careers and professional status of members; and
3. To be a voice on scientific issues and public policy affecting the Canadian food supply.

The benefits of membership include: ten issues of Food in Canada, a reduced subscription to a bi-monthly scientific journal – Food Research International, an annual conference attended by over 500 food scientists and technologists, regional and national newsletters describing upcoming events and news, regular regional meetings and a national membership directory; on line at www.cifst.ca.

The Manitoba section of CIFST meets regularly for technical presentations, social events and workshops. The Section places special emphasis on working with students in the area of food science. Membership is open to all persons actively engaged in food science and technology. For more information, contact:

UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA FOOD SCIENCE AND FOODS AND NUTRITION DEPARTMENTS

The University of Manitoba has two departments involved with foods: the Department of Food Science and the Department of Foods and Nutrition. The goals of both departments are to train students for employment in areas of food product development, consumer acceptability and quality assessment. The Department of Food Science is involved with the technology of processing agricultural raw materials, adding value and also with aspects of food safety.

In addition to offering undergraduate and graduate degrees in Food Science and Foods and Nutrition, training programs for industry and government employees, as well as a variety of short-course offerings (HACCP, Food Safety, Sanitation, Extraneous Matter in Foods, Thermal Processing), are provided on a regular basis throughout the year to interested individuals. A new evening course on HACCP will be offered in the fall semester and be widely accessible. Dairy and food processing pilot plants are available for contract research.

The Department of Foods and Nutrition examines the nutritional and quality characteristics of food. Consumer preferences, attitudes and consumption of foods are also considered.

Both departments offer a wide variety of technical skills to complement food processing and sensory testing facilities. The two departments have extensive research involvement with the Grain Research Laboratory, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's Winnipeg Research Station and St. Boniface Hospital – a useful resource for conducting clinical trials of nutritional products. They can assist companies in preparing test quantities of new products for market studies. They can also provide sensory and instrumental testing of products. The departments are most willing to serve as a resource for provincial food companies, with activities designed to complement those of the Food Development Centre.

R & D: AGRI-FOOD'S RECIPE FOR SUCCESS

These pages highlight the significant R&D expertise available to Manitoba food producers and processors and specific programs open to those aiming to bring new food products to market.

FOOD DEVELOPMENT CENTRE (FDC)

P.O. Box 1240
810 Phillips Street
Portage la Prairie, Manitoba
R1N 3J9
Telephone: (204) 239-3150
Toll-Free in Canada:
1-800-870-1044
Fax: (204) 239-3180
E-mail: lpetriuk@fdc.mb.ca
Web: www.fdc.mb.ca

FDC is dedicated to economic development in the agri-food industry through the provision of assistance to Manitoba and other Canadian provinces in the areas of new food product development, food process development, sensory evaluation, food and packaging information and advisory services, and agri-food seminars. FDC operates a pilot plant that is registered by Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, the Department of Fisheries and Oceans, and Manitoba Agriculture and Food. FDC offers services and capabilities in the areas of baked goods, confectionery, vegetable processing, beverages, and other processed and prepared foods. The pilot plant and other services are available on a fee-for-service basis, and can be used for both research and development or small scale commercial production. The FDC Library is an excellent resource centre in the food science and technology field, specializing in information in nutraceuticals and functional foods, HACCP, wine science, cereal science, fruit and vegetable processing, food microbiology, food safety and sanitation, and legislation. Publications are available for borrowing, reference services and literature searches are available on request.

UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA (U OF M)

Several departments in two faculties carry out research and teaching and provide assistance to industry in areas related to agri-food value-added processing and consumer acceptance.

Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences
Winnipeg, Manitoba R3T 2N2
Telephone:1-(204) 474-9380
Web: www.umanitoba.ca/afs/

The Food Science Department conducts physical, chemical and microbiological analysis of foods and food ingredients using both approved and experimental techniques. Staff have expertise in cereal, protein and carbohydrate chemistry, food microbiology, biotechnology, food safety, dairy and horticultural crop processing. Expertise and access to the Department's food processing and dairy pilot plants are available to industry for food product improvement and research and development.

The Biosystems Engineerng Department offers expertise in the analysis and design of components, processes and systems for the food industry. Special capabilities range from fundamental research on the mathematical modeling of heat and mass transfer in irregular shaped foods and the determination of the thermal properties and the water activity in foods, to the more applied research areas, including aseptic processing of foods, distribution of chilled meat, superheated steam-drying of liquid foods, supercritical fluid extraction and image processing.

The Plant Science Department has facilities and expertise in experimental milling, baking and vegetable storage. Pesticide residue analysis capabilities are found in the Soil Science Department. The facility operates on grants, although services are also offered on a fee-for-service basis. This laboratory protects client confidentiality by way of a contract.

Faculty of Human Ecology

The Foods and Nutrition Department enjoys an excellent reputation for its edible-oil research program and routinely conducts food biochemical analysis, processing/storage trials, consumer acceptance studies, sensory evaluation and human feeding trials.

AGRICULTURE AND AGRI-FOOD CANADA (AAFC)

Research Branch
Cereal Research Centre
195 Dafoe Road
Winnipeg, Manitoba R3T 2M9
Telephone: 1-(204) 983-5533
Fax: 1-(204) 983-4604
Web: http://res2.agr.ca/winnipeg/

AAFC combines expertise and facilities in cereal quality, pathology and biotechnology to develop improved wheat and oat varieties for Western Canada. It also offers expertise in safe processes for controlling insects, mites and fungi in stored grain and grain products, in addition to identifying controls for mycotoxins.

Morden
The primary focus is on research activities involving the development and marketing of oilseed, pulse and hardy ornamental crops on the Prairies. Researchers develop high quality, disease resistant flax, field pea and bean varieties.

Brandon
The primary focus is on natural resource conservation with research on improved beef and pork genetics and programs in barley development and pasture management. This is followed through with analysis on the impact of the end-processed product, such as the reduction of fat levels in bacon using microwave cooking instead of frying.

These laboratories protect client confidentiality by way of a contract.

CANADIAN INTERNATIONAL GRAINS INSTITUTE (CIGI)

1000-303 Main Street
Winnipeg, Manitoba R3C 3G7
Telephone: 1-(204) 983-6214
Fax: 1-(204) 983-2642
E-mail: atremere@cigi.ca
Dr. Arnold Tremere – Executive Director
Web: www.cigi.ca

CIGI offers expertise in food, feed, and oilseed technology. The primary emphasis is on wheat, although studies on other commodities are also conducted. The technical expertise and strong commercial experience of the Institute is complemented by complete, on-site wheat processing capabilities, enabling the Institute to simulate commercial practices in flour milling, pasta, baking, noodle manufacturing and quality control. CIGI's quality control also exists in the area of aquaculture feed, poultry feed and other feeds. Computer software capabilities for least-cost feed formulation and custom designed software for flour milling economics are also offered in-house. The Institute undertakes its own investigative studies, often in co-operation with government research and commercial processing facilities. The Institute operates with funding from the Canadian Wheat Board and Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada.

This laboratory protects client confidentiality by way of a contract.

CANADIAN GRAIN COMMISSION, GRAIN RESEARCH LABORATORY (GRL)

1404 – 303 Main Street
Winnipeg, Manitoba R3C 3G8
Telephone: 1-(204) 983-2764
Fax: 1-(204) 983-0724

GRL is the Scientific Division of the Canadian Grain Commission and provides support for the quality assurance and market support objectives of the Commission. GRL offers extensive expertise in the evaluation of quality of cereal grains, pulses and oilseeds, and houses specialized equipment, including laboratory and pilot scale capabilities for flour and semolina milling, processing of baked products, noodles and pastas, and barley malting. Analytical capabilities include determination of physical properties, chemical constituents, functionality (suitability for specific end products) and toxic chemical and biological contaminants. GRL operates on 50 per cent grants from the Government of Canada and 50 per cent internal funding by the Canadian Grain Commission. GRL reserves the right to publish results, but publishing may be delayed upon request.

If you would like a copy of detailed capabilities and other information, please call the Manitoba Government at (204) 945-2012.

FACTS ABOUT MANITOBA'S AGRICULTURE AND FOOD PROCESSING INDUSTRY

The direct and indirect contribution of agriculture to Manitoba's economy averaged almost 11 per cent of the province's gross domestic product during 1995 – 1999. The value of farm production was almost over $2.9 billion in 1999. The food and beverage sector contributed about $2.8 billion in total revenues in 1999.

In 1999, the province's agricultural sector employed some 37,100 people. Another 20,400 people, including over 8,000 in the processed food and beverage industry, were employed in other sectors of the provincial economy as a direct result of farm production. All together, these numbers mean more than one in ten jobs in Manitoba depended on agriculture.

Land Use

About half of all land in Manitoba with agricultural potential is used for farming – 7.7 million hectares (19.1 million acres) in 1996. In 1999, 4 million hectares (10.9 million acres) were seeded to crops, 0.61 million hectares (1.5 million acres) used for summer fallow and over one-third of a million hectares were improved pasture lands. More than 1.6 million hectares (4.1 million acres) were unimproved land used for pasture and hay.

Farm Numbers and Income

In 1999, Manitoba had some 23,400 farms, with an average size of over 325 hectares (800 acres). About 79,840 Manitobans live on farms. In 1996, one in 14 people in the province lived on a farm, compared with a one in 10 ratio in 1981.

Total net farm income in 1999 was almost $195 million. Farm cash receipts from crops fell 13.5 per cent form 1998 to 1999, while receipts from livestock increased by 0.7 per cent to a new record level.

Food and Beverage Industry

Manitoba is home to 260 food processing companies, including several major national and multi-national corporations in a variety of product markets.

These include subsidiaries of Archer Daniels Midland (flour and malt), Midwest Food Products Ltd. (french fries and potato products), McCain Foods Ltd. (french fries and potato products), J.M. Schneider Inc. (pork, processed meat), Maple Leaf Meats (pork, processed meat) and Pillsbury Canada Ltd. (frozen foods), among others.

In five years, Manitoba has increased agri-food exports by 61 per cent to $2.7 billion in 1998. Major export products include fresh and frozen pork, potato products, vegetable oil and oil-cake derived canola, malt, oat bran, egg and poultry products, and honey. Over 88 per cent of the province's hog and pork production is exported.

The United States is, by far, Manitoba's largest export destination. Japan is a distant second, though it is still far ahead of newer export markets such as Mexico, Western Europe, India, Cuba and Hong Kong.

The impressive rise in exports from 1994 to 1998 is expected to be outstripped in coming years as major capital investments in agri-food plants result in increased agri-food processing. These recent investments, totaling over $250 million, include:

- McCain Foods has completed an $82 million expansion of its existing potato-processing plant.
- Midwest Food Products has an $18.6 million plant expansion.
- J.M. Schneider Inc. has built a $40 million advanced hog processing plant in Winnipeg.
- Maple Leaf Meats' new $112 million hog slaughter plant in Brandon was completed in 1999.

Such investment, together with the impact of free trade agreements with the United States, Mexico, Chile and Israel, promises to further enhance Manitoba's competitive position in global food markets.
